“ Mr. B aka: Sir Cactus first came to visit our house when my dad was stationed in Texas with his son Bob. Mr. B, Mrs. B. and Mary spent a week in Texas and came over to our house for a California taco dinner (Mr. and Mrs. B. and Mary's first) and to play pinochle. I remember sitting in the Breitbarths farm house kitchen and Mr. B. was at the head of the table sitting in a rocking chair smoking his pipe. All of a sudden you could see this glimmer in his eyes and you knew that he was going to say something that would catch you off guard. Mr. B. had me gathering eggs morning, noon and night and when he told me snakes could be in the nests, that about did it for me, as I have a very morbid fear of snakes. He was a generous, kind-hearted person who was as sharp as a tack the last time I spoke with him about a year and a half ago.

Bob, Mary and all the grand-kids and great grand-kids, I know that you knew your Besta Far (that's Norwegian for grandfather) loved all of you very much, and I also know you will all miss him, but he is at peace now with his spiritual health in Heaven with his wife Leone, sister Mildred and all those he loved and lost during his lifetime.

It was my privilege to have spent a week with the Breitbarths in 1980 when Bob was ordained and we drank much coffee, laughed and talked, the Breitbarths also visited us in Concord, California in 1976 for a week and it was an enjoyable visit.

He will be missed, but always remembered by the Tweet family. Rest in peace Sir Cactus.

“ Bob, Angie, Mary, Roy and your family,
What a full, wonderful life your dad had. He always was joking around, so much that it was hard to tell what was truth vs. his sense of humor. However I just cannot picture him on the tractor plowing with no one to "pull their leg". Maybe that is the real reason he retired from farming, so that he could work around others just to share jokes.

He truly was blessed with a long, relatively healthy life. May a part of him, his happiness, sense of humor and never taking life too seriously continue on with each of you to honor that Breitbarth spirit.
