“ Time. We always think we have more time. Barbara was my last surviving first cousin on my Dad's side. We lost touch over the years and finally met again in October, 2017. We shared pictures, laughs, family stories. Oh, the stories! Sadly we were not a close family growing up, not in distance, not through personal connection. Time got in the way. Distance got in the way. Memories faded.

I'm so sorry for your loss. Just from the few times I spoke with Barb over the last 2 years I found her to be a spitfire! Small but mighty. I'm grateful for the time we did spend talking.

*While mourning is a sign of respect, Remembering is Holy.
I will remember your mom, your grandma, your great-grandma, my cousin.*

Praying for comfort and peace for the extended family and friends.
