“ Oh mom, I miss you. I don't think my heart will ever be the same , you taught me to love, and so so much more, thanks for the talks, the laughs, the shoulder to cry on but most of all for being my best friend my whole life. Hug dad and gram and grampa for me , hope heaven is full of books for you.
I love you

“ Oh mom, we miss you. My heart will never be the same. I know your at peace finally and in God and dad's arms. You were the most loving, caring person I ever met, Thank you mom for all you taught me, showed me, trusted me and told me. I will forever miss talking and laughing with you everyday. I love you and feel some comfort in knowing you knew how much.
Till I see you and dad again play pinochle with the rest, read all the books heaven holds Love you so much

“ My deepest sympathy to all the O'Connor girls. Jean was such a sweet woman I remember from the 'old days' in Hickory Hills.
You are in my thoughts and prayers.
